Will Campaign for Community Club Work in Display Departments

TO MEET IN MARCH

Granges and Schools To Take Active Part in Event; Masters in Charge

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 23.—The adjourned meeting of the Wyandot County Fair Board was held Tuesday afternoon in the office of the secretary, Ira T. Matteson, at the courthouse. President D. A. Bloom named the following committees for the year 1930, subject to the approval of the board of directors: chief marshal, L. J. Parsell, Forest; grounds committee, Henry Nagel and Paul Smith, Upper Sandusky; clerk of appeal, C. F. Smith, of this city; departmental superintendent, C. W. Reis, Adams; cattle, Paul Smith and Henry Nagel; sheep, Jay Smith, Sandusky; and R. A. Parsell, Sandusky; swine, Ross A. Winters, Nevada; and E. A. Baughman, Gary; poultry, Upper Sandusky Poultry association; art hall, Jacob Wetzell; boys' and girls' club, J. D. Stoneburner; executive committee, G. W. Reis, D. A. Bloom, Ira T. Matteson, Jacob Wetzell and Charles F. Artz; finance committee, J. D. Stoneburner, C. W. Reis, and Harry Merrick; auditing committee, L. J. Parsell, J. F. Emptage and R. A. Parsell; premium list committee, Ross A. Winters, and Ira T. Matteson; prize and locating committee, Charles F. Artz and Ira T. Matteson; fair manager, Ira T. Matteson.

Revised List
The premium list has been revised to the premium department, with a few changes yet to be made in the cattle department.

An extensive campaign will be made this year for community club work, consisting of township and group exhibits.

The grange department was left in the hands of the masters of the county granges, and under the supervision of the county deputy master. They are to work out an approved schedule for the display of the different granges of the county. This report of the grange schedule is to be received at the March meeting of the fair board.

The boys' and girls' club work has been placed in charge of County Superintendent of Schools Ralph Broede, and his assistants, and also the local farm bureau headed by Miss Freda Ulrich, of this city. They will also report at the March meeting.

The proposed tree attractions, and the many new features of the 1930 Wyandot county fair, was extensively discussed at yesterday's meeting.

ANSWERS CALL

Gallon Fire Department Extinguishes Blaze in Storage Building

GALLON, Jan. 20.—The local fire department was called out early this morning to a fire in the frame building located on the rear of the Victor Smart lot, 137 West Railroad st. The building had formerly been used as a barber shop and also as a repair shop but at the present time was the storage room for furniture. There was no fire in the building so it is not known just how the fire started. The outside of the building was burned quite badly but the damage is not great. The fire was extinguished before it had made much headway.

State Lets Bid for

Hardin County Bridge

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23.—Approximately $1,000,000 worth of new road construction in Ohio has been awarded to contractors and construction companies, according to bids which had been opened by the state highway department here today. About 40 miles of new highways are to be paved or improved. The improvements include Hardin county, arch bridge over Hog Creek, on State Route 66, north of Ada. Elmer Meyer construction Co., of Ada, $18,000.79.

Twins Are "Hello Girls" at Mt. Gilead Exchange; Patrons Wonder Who is Who

Sisters Inseparable, Dress Alike and Are Known as "Twinliest Twins"

WITH COMPANY 13 YEARS

Friends and Acquaintances Unable to Distinguish One from the Other

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 23.—When residents of Mt. Gilead take the receiver off the hook to make a telephone call in the wee small hours of the night, they are often reminded of the voice of Miss Mona Lee Thomas or Miss Nona Dove Thomas, who take the night calls at the exchange.

No sisters are bound by closer ties than the Misses Thomas. They are twins and their remarkable resemblance makes it extremely difficult for even friends and acquaintances of long standing to distinguish between them at all times. The clothes of one are always exact replicas of the others and they have always so dressed from their infancy.

Born in County
They were born about two miles north of Mt. Gilead near the crossing of the Mt. Gilead, Marion road and the C. & C. & St. L. railroad. Thirteen years ago they removed with their parents to Mt. Gilead. Since the death of their parents they have continued to reside with their sister, Miss Golda Thomas, at 301 W. Marion st. Soon after coming to Mt. Gilead they entered the employ of the local telephone company.

Twinliest Twins
They are inseparable one rarely being seen without the other. To all residents of Mt. Gilead the Thomas twins are known as the "twinliest" twins in their experience.

Architect for Penney Co. Discusses Plans for Bucyrus Store

BUCYRUS, Jan. 23.—J. M. Johnson, architect from the J. C. Penney Co., construction department was in Bucyrus yesterday at which time he met with the building committee of the Eagle lodge for the purpose of discussing plans for the new business building to be erected at South Sandusky av. and West Reservoir st. by the lodge. Plans for the structure are being drafted and will be decided upon when Mr. Johnson returns to the city in about 10 days. Present plans call for a ground floor and a mezzanine floor to be occupied by the Penney Co. on which a 50-year lease has been signed and eight suites of modern office rooms on the second floor. One of which have already been leased. The building will occupy the entire space now occupied by Mertin's bakery. Wanniger dry cleaning establishment, and McNutt's motor sales, and will adjoin the present Eagle building. Construction is expected to cost approximately $50,000 and work will begin early in April if it is planned.

Pleasant Township Farm Institute Awards Prizes

List of Exhibit Winners Announced at Close of Two-Day Program; Institute Called Most Successful Ever Held; Marie W. Young Re-elected President

The Pleasant Township Farm Institute met with its greatest success since its organization in its two-day session Monday and Tuesday at the Pleasant school building. Monday night there were 475 present and last night the attendance was 400. Dr. F. A. Stenzel, of Marion, last night gave a talk on his trip through the west, illustrated with colored slides.

In the afternoon session Marie W. Young was re-elected president of the institute committee. B. C. Cope was re-elected secretary and Mrs. Stanley Hootman was elected lady correspondent.

The corn exhibitor donated by the Marion Implement Co. for the best 10 ears of corn exhibited was awarded Lawrence Weiss. There was $100 in awards given away last night. The grain exhibit was the largest ever shown at the institute.

Awards in the corn show were made as follows: champion, Earl, Robert Seiler; second, Harold Patrick; third, Lawrence Weiss; fourth, Carl Sommer; fifth, Roy Miller; sixth, Adam Geyer; seventh, Emerson Deitsch; eighth, second, Adam Geyer; ninth, second, Adam Geyer; tenth, second, Adam Geyer.

In the afternoon Mrs. Helen Hargrave talked on "Religious Education in the Home." The sixth grade pupils opened the program with music, followed by songs and recitations by the children. Henry Croft and Russell Hood gave several harmonious selections.

Harold Green, the Pleasant institute in the vocational-agriculture contest, gave an oration last night on "Making the Farm Pay," presiding the talk by Dr. Stenzel, Emerson Deitsch, Loren Cope, Owen Kirkpatrick, and Myron Kirkpatrick entertained with songs and harmonious numbers.

Premiums awarded last night were as follows:
GRANGERS PLAN CALLED SESSION
Montgomery Group Will Receive Traveling Gavel from Progressive Organization

Plans for receiving the traveling gavel from Progressive group at a meeting Feb. 11 were made at the meeting of members of Montgomery group, No. 2336 last night at the grange hall at DeCliff, grange Master Earl H. Miller presided for the business session during which a class of 15 candidates was given the first and second degrees. Mr. and Mrs. Fogle were enrolled as members on a transfer from Bethlehem grange. Plans were made for a called meeting Feb. 4, at which time the first and second degrees will be conferred on a class of candidates. It was voted to send Mrs. Mary Thibault, lecturer, to the grange lecturers short course at Ohio State university, Columbus, Feb. 21 to 28.

Mrs. Donna Fern Brown was named junior matron, Mrs. Mildred Anderson, Mrs. Clyde Davis and Mrs. Alice Thibault were named as committee to draft resolutions on the death of Mrs. Dell Gray Hunt, a member of the grange. The charter was ordered draped for 30 days for Mrs. Hunt.

W. E. Selander, of Rowling Green grange, gave a talk on "The Benefit of the Grange to a Community." A song by the grange members and readings by Mrs. Harry Deal, Mrs. Rosa Woodbury and Mrs. Hatlie Hileman concluded the lecture hour.

The next regular meeting will be Feb. 21, at which time members of Progressive group will confer the third and fourth degrees on a class of candidates.

PLAN WORK
Grand Grange, No. 2336, will confer the first and second degrees at a meeting of members of Grand Grange, No. 2336, last night at the school building. Two applications were balloted on during the business session. Plans were made for a meeting in two weeks at which time a class of candidates will be given the third and fourth degrees. A covered dish supper will follow the work meeting.

Army Veteran Victim of Bandits in Bank

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 26.—Victim of bandit gang Joseph E. Fox, 40, army veteran and captain in the reserves, is dead here today.

While Fox was transacting business in a branch of the American Trust Co., two bandits entered the bank with drawn guns. Fox opened fire on them and a moment later slumped to the floor with three bullets in his back.

After slaying Fox, the bandits, one of whom is believed to have been wounded, made their escape in an automobile.

The Intermediate division of the Marion County Sunday School league was filled with excitement last night when the Senior League found things going along smoothly with the favorites holding up victories.

Christians are out in front of the Intermediate race following the unexpected defeat of the Presbyterians by Epworth No. 1, 2 to 11, Cookston, scoring 10 points, led the Methodist team to victory. Long with eight and Campbell and Hinton with seven each were the other high scorers for the victors. The Christians did not have any trouble in doubling the count on Trinity Baptist to stay in first place. The score was 20 to 15.

The other intermediate contest found Epworth No. 2 defeating Calvary, 24 to 12. It was the first victory of the season for the second Epworth quintet.

There was just one change in the standings of the Senior division, that was when Epworth dropped a 28-10 decision to Christian No. 1. The defeat resulted in the Epworth team dropping a notch down the standings.

Waldo had a close race but managed to keep his state clean by defeating United Brethren, 22 to 20. 11. Strine with three goals and ten runs threw was the high point man of the season.

Calvary had a full team on the floor last night but were unable to snap the slump that is keeping it at the bottom of the standings. Trinity defeated the Evangelicals, 37 to 25, with W. Merchant and Appleget doing the bulk of the scoring. The Presbyterian victory over Christian No. 2 came as no big surprise. The Presbyterians are fighting it out with the free Christian team for second place in the standings. Last night's score was:

Nehf Through After 18 Years in Major Leagues

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Art Nehf, one of baseball's immortal and a great world series "money pitcher," is through as a ball player, after wearing major and minor league uniforms for 18 years.

He will not be with the Chicago Cubs when they battle their way around the National league circuit this season in the quest of another pennant. Instead the famous southpaw will take over a lucrative position as manager of the real estate holdings of William Wrigley, Jr. in Arizona.

Nehf has been placed on the Cubs' voluntary retired list. He himself formally announced that his brilliant career has come to an end.

It must have been difficult for a man of Nehf's temperament to turn in his uniform. For baseball was his life. He was the earnest, willing type of player whose heart and soul was in the game. He was a credit to himself and to the game and it will be with sincere regret that baseball men all around the National League circuit will miss him this season.

Tribute from McGraw
Manager John J. McGraw of the New York Giants for whom Nehf pitched while at the zenith of his fame, paid him the tribute: "The greatest world series pitcher I ever saw." Coming from McGraw, who saw Christy Mathewson twist three shutouts in a row against the Athletics in the world series of 1905 and defeating himself again in three subsequent world series, this is a real tribute. McGraw has had other great world series pitchers besides Mathewson, too.

McGraw's appraisal of Nehf was based on Art's magnificent performance in the series of 1921, 1922 and 1923 between the Giants and the Yankees and the 1925 series between the Giants and the Senators.

For years Nehf was McGraw's "ace" whenever he got in a hole. Art was a pitcher with a winning complex, a student of opposing batters and a courageous, heady worker in a pinch.

"I have never seen his equal for sheer courage and intelligence under fire," said McGraw. "He used his head in every ball he pitched and his control and judgment were superb."

Nehf had five brilliant years with the Giants before he settled in his valuable left arm in the spring of 1925 when the Giants were trailing at Saratoga, Ark.

The Saratoga attack was the beginning of the end for Nehf. He has pitched some very fine games since but never was quite the same. The good old left wing had lost some of its zip and he had to depend more and more on his head and less on his arm.

Up From Minor
Nehf came up to the majors from the Terre Haute (Ind.) club of the Central League in 1914 when he joined the Boston Braves. Previously he had played in the Copper League and in Kansas City and Toledo where he played with both the Giants and the Federal League club.

He was bought by the Braves for $3,000 and quickly established himself as a major league pitcher of real caliber.

By 1919 he was regarded as the best left-hander in the National league and the Giants obtained him for $10,000 in cash and five players. That was then a record price but Nehf was worth every nickel of it. For five years he was a star with the Giants but began to slip after he developed neuritis. In May, 1923, the Giants sold him to the Cincinnati Reds. His arm had gone bad and he was of little use to the Reds. Several times he offered to retire.

The Reds released him outright on Aug. 30, 1927. But he was not yet through as a big leaguer. Manager Joe McCarthy of the Chicago Cubs made him an offer, figuring that if he nursed his arm until he still could do some first rate pitching.

During the 1928 season Nehf justified McCarthy's faith in him by doing his best class work, 23-10. He did not his old self and could not go to the mound with the frequency of the days of old. He did full work in 1929 but, in spite of his great world series record, the Cubs could make no real use of him in the annual baseball classic last fall. His effectiveness as a pitcher had reached an end, and Nehf finally forced himself to admit it.

Nehf was born in Terre Haute, Ind., in 1892. He gives his father credit for the fact that he achieved fame in baseball.

MOVES TO INSURE SCHMELING FIGHT

New Leader of Heavyweight Division by Summer Is Goal of Boxing Officials in New York

DAVIS J. WALSH

Copyright, 1930 by J. N. S.
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—If Schmeling defeats the Sharkey-Scott winner at Miami, Fla., on Feb. 27, it will be declared the heavyweight champion of the world, per se and without further ado.

William Muldoon, who has established a one-man protectorate over the kingdom of the heavyweight, so declared today in an interview in which he outlined the status of the heavyweight situation for the benefit of the writer. For the benefit of Max Schmeling, the third person in the championship triangle, he issued the preliminary warning that, if for any reason he failed to meet the Miami winner at an early date, the German would be considered to have defaulted his rights and the championship would rest with the decision at Miami.

Second Chance
"Schmeling had his chance last summer and wouldn't take it," the dictator added. "We are giving him another chance this summer. If he again shows a disinclination to fight his logical opponent, the Sharkey-Scott winner will be named champion and his name will go on our memorial with those of the nine former champions already inscribed upon the trophy."

"There does the Miami fight take on a significance far beyond even the most rabid surmise of those who sponsored it. But, not to William Muldoon. He sees it as one of the great international fights of the ages and, since he alone will decide who is champion, it doesn't appear as though any contrary opinion can be at all vital.

"The greatest fight between big men since the immortal meetings between Tunney and Dempsey," is one way he views the impending unpleasantness down below the Mason and Dixon line.

"First International Fight"
"Another way he sees it is as 'the first real international championship fight' since the days of the old prize ring when old John C. Heenan went over to fight Tom Sayers."

"Get that name right," he warned. "John C. Heenan. A fine fighter, a thorough gentleman and a highly intelligent man. It isn't a name I want desecrated when I speak of it."

I decided not to desecrate it. Also to make an attempt to break through service by mentioning that the Sullivan-Mitchell, Corbett-Mitchell and Dempsey-Pirpo meetings were international championship fights. It seemed that I was wrong. Pirpo, for instance, was a South American and, therefore, the real international aspect, involving the old world against the new, was lost. Mitchell, it appeared, just didn't belong.

"He wasn't a fighter of any great importance," said he with just a shade of depreciation.

As for Sullivan, whom Muldoon managed, it seemed that old John was the best fighter in the world but hadn't taken the trouble to prove it. The other nations, it appeared, complained querulously that John had not met their best man and, therefore, couldn't call himself the champion of the world.

Every Country Given Chances
"And they were right," the old man of boxing declared, regretfully. "It is the very thing I am trying to avoid in the present heavyweight situation. The best man in each major country must be given his chance before the title of heavyweight champion can be declared."

Miami Will Play Indiana
ON GRIDIRON Next Season
EXPLORE, Jan. 23.—Miami university's 1930 football schedule has been completed with the scheduling of a game here Oct. 4 with the University of Illinois "B" team, according to George L. Rider, director of athletics at Miami.

The "Big Red" will open the season the previous week in a game with the University of Indiana rivalry at Bloomington.

The Miami schedule, which is one of the toughest Coach Pittner's teams have faced in recent years, is composed of nine games, five of which will be played at home.

LOMSKI IS DECLARED WINNER OF BATTLE

Boxing Commission Reverses Decision Returned by Referee of Match

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Lew Lomski

light heavyweight boxer, today holds the distinction of having won his bout with James J. Braddock 11 days after it was fought.

The encounter, which was fought here at the Coliseum Jan. 17, was expected on the records as a draw just as it was announced from the ring immediately after the fight.

Yesterday, however, the Illinois Boxing commission, decided the scorecard additions were in error and thereupon awarded the verdict to Lomski.

The commission's move, it was shown, was not reversal of decision, but a correction of the decision given by Referee Miller, referee.

While commission members were busy explaining the change, the betting interests here were in a quandary trying to collect on paper profits. Braddock entered the ring at 7 to 5 favorite and the wagering was brisk.

Your Eyes and Our Service TO READ OR NOT TO READ

That is the question the middle aged person wonders about. The problem becomes more serious with the years. Soon it seems it will be "not to read." No one wants THAT to happen, so someone is consulted who supplies "ability to read." Then the question is answered. We have a satisfactory reading service.

RED CROSS PLANNING TO MOVE SATURDAY

Expected To Be Installed at That Time in Uhler-Phillips Building

Officials of the local Red Cross chapter hope to see the organization installed in its new quarters in the Uhler-Phillips Co. building Saturday, when the lease on rooms in that building becomes effective.

A suite of rooms which will house all local Red Cross activities will be maintained on the fourth floor of the building. It has been announced.

In taking over new quarters, the chapter is giving up rooms formerly occupied in the Eagles building, or city hall, at the expense of the city. These rooms will be converted into an office for Safety Director T. E. Soumestre, with a smaller room formerly held by the Red Cross to be equipped for state examiners.

The new Red Cross rooms will be headquarters for Mrs. Mabel Hastings, city nurse; Mrs. Lela Mangum, Red Cross nurse; Miss Esther Trees, Red Cross auditorial; and Miss Margaret Dowd, secretary.

The Ashley and Junior fairs combined was one of the very few fairs in Ohio to show a nice profit in 1929, a most disastrous year for fairs; the Junior Fair is given full credit for its share in the success of the "biggest little fair in Ohio."

FRUSTRATE RAID
Police Shoot Holdup Man and Block Chicago Robbery Plot

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Tapped wires again furnished a plot to raid an exclusive "gold coast" apartment house today when police lying in wait for a holdup man shot, and seriously wounded the bandit as he tried to shoot his way out of the trap.

The police acted on "the same information" which resulted in seizure of 22 holdup gang suspects Sunday night and which caused the preferring of charges against Assistant State's Attorney Harry Busch, Patrick Roche, state's attorney's investigator, said.

Rehe received information that the holdup was set for last night, and went there early in the evening with one of his men.

ADMIT JUNIORS TO FAIR ASSOCIATION

Ohio Managers Vote New Group to Honorary Membership

ASHLEY, Jan. 20.—The convention of state associations of county fairs being held throughout the United States indicate a surprising spread and growth of the Junior fair movement originating at Ashley in 1925 with the organization of the first Junior Fair Association in America.

Recently the Ohio Fair Managers association in convention at Columbus gave much time on the program to the discussion of the Junior Fair and at the close of the convention voted to admit to honorary membership in the Ohio Fair Managers association all regularly organized Junior fair associations.

THREE EVANGELISTS HERE FOR MEETINGS

Taylor University Minister Gives Opening Sermon at Holiness Convention

Prof. John Owen of Taylor university, Union, Ind., preached the opening sermon in the National Holiness convention last night at Calvary Evangelist church. The convention has brought three evangelists to the city. Dr. Owen, Dr. G. W. Butler, and the Rev. A. J. Finkbeiner, of Columbus. The Rev. Mr. Finkbeiner is in conference with Mrs. J. W. Baker at the place.

Prefacing his sermon, Dr. Owen outlined the purpose of the National Holiness association as the spreading of Scripture holiness for the interpretation of full redemption in Jesus Christ and His ministry.

"We need salvation," he declared, "and we have in Christ the way adequate to the need of the fallen race. He is able to save from all sin, to make our hearts temples for His dwelling. Through an enlightened conscience we realize our need. If we can not pass merely before the bar of our own conscience, how can we expect to be free from condemnation in God's sight?"

Three services will be held daily at 10 a. m., 2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m., with early prayer services each night at 7 o'clock.

PROBE HANDLING OF HIGH COURT ORDERS

Charges Made Convicted Persons Remain at Large After Mandate Is Issued

CLEVELAND, Jan. 22.—Investigation was launched here today into the alleged hazardous handling of Ohio supreme and appellate court orders which permit convicts to remain at large after mandates have been issued ordering execution of sentence.

Charges of slipshod methods in the handling of criminal cases followed the disclosure that Roberto Porcello, sentenced to one year in the penitentiary for carrying a revolver in his automobile, had remained at large for seven months after a mandate had been issued ordering him to begin his sentence.

Porcello voluntarily surrendered himself to authorities last night, declaring his ignorance of any knowledge that he should have gone to prison months ago.

A similar instance of alleged careless handling of court orders was revealed recently when it was discovered that Charles O'Neil, murdered "Little Hollywood" bootlegger, and two men convicted with him for assault, had evaded a 90-day workhouse sentence. The two men, Edward O'Leary and Ray Donnelly, are being sought. O'Leary is reported to be in Detroit.

Indian Chief Heard in Waldo Lecture Course

Chief Nipo Strongheart, Indian lecturer and interpreter of Indian life on the reservations, lectured at the Waldo high school last night at the second number of the high school lecture course.

His theme for the lecture was "A Plea for the Betterment of Conditions on the Indian Reservations." Chief Strongheart is a Yakima Indian, and has many times represented his people before the House of Representatives in Washington, D. C. His lecture held the close attention of his audience all during his two hours' length.

King Calls Berenguer To Lead Spanish Government

Appointment of Political Enemy Comes as Blow to Former Dictator; New Cabinet Head Takes Office; Greeted with Disturbances

MADRID, Jan. 29.—Called upon to fill the place left vacant by the resignation of Gen. Primo de Rivera, who ruled Spain with an iron hand for more than six years, King Alfonso XIII. today named General Berenguer to lead the government.

One of his first acts was to take measures to prevent disorderly elements from using the political upheaval as an opportunity to spread anarchy throughout the country.

A demonstration in the streets of this capital city by more than 2,000 students and others with radical tendencies was promptly quelled by the police.

For a time last night, however, the demonstration threatened to take on the aspect of a serious riot as the

REOPEN SCHOOLS

Only Students Vaccinated Allowed to Return to Classes

TIFFIN, Jan. 29.—Tiffin public schools were reopened today following their closing yesterday on orders by the board of health. Only students who had been vaccinated with smallpox serum were permitted to attend classes.

The board of health issued orders to close the schools following a survey which showed that only about half of the pupils had been vaccinated. The board had previously issued an order that all school children should be vaccinated when it was discovered that two cases of smallpox existed in the city.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

This is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel; just a benign, soothing, vegetable laxative, safe and pleasant.

No gripping is the keynote of these "laxative sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets." They help cause the bowels to move to normal. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" and breath a dull, tired feeling—pick these up—try them. They are constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 10c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

NOT only is woman the fair sex, she is the fairly well off sex. For, despite the millions of women who constantly wall and grumble at the insufficiency of their household allowance and their pin money, it is the ladies who have half the individual wealth of the world. And the cynic will, no doubt, insist that many of these women are included in the aforementioned grumblers.

Authority for the amazing facts about the personal wealth of women is to be found in the returns of Federal income tax, as well as list of stockholders of great corporations. The lists of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the Westinghouse Co. reveal that women are the majority stockholders. In National Bank and Pennsylvania Railroad, women own 50 per cent of the stock. An analysis of the 1925 income tax returns shows that of all persons reporting personal incomes in excess of $500,000, 129 were women and 123 were men. And in the Chrysler Heights of income between $100,000 and $500,000, there were three women against one lone man.

Inheritance is another factor that adds to the wealth held by women. They are receiving 70 per cent of the estate left by men, and 64 per cent of those left by their own sex. And there is no evidence that women make a practice of squandering her inheritance.

Woman is adding to her wealth through the business world. This is evident from even a superficial study of the daily news. Recently an item appeared letting the world know that Mrs. George R. Van Namee, president of the House of Flowers, one of the greatest florist businesses in America, had signed a lease that had an aggregate rental of $7,353,000. Mrs. Alice Foote MacDougall, who added atmosphere to the menu of her beautiful coffee houses is another woman who blithely signs leases for her restaurants way up in the million class. TO REPORT NEW DRY MEASURE THURSDAY

One Important Change Made in Bill Transferring Control

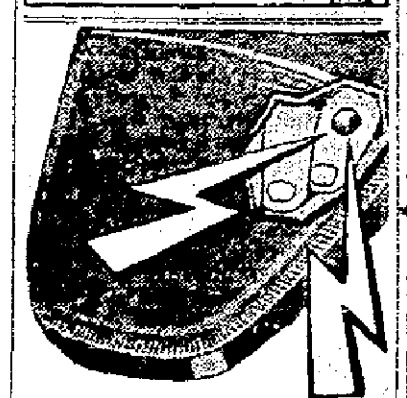

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Hearings on the bill which will take prohibition out of the hands of the secretary of the treasury and place full responsibility for its enforcement upon the department of justice virtually were completed today with every prospect it would be reported favorably to the house tomorrow for enactment.

Meeting in executive session, the house committee on judiciary, in a preliminary consideration of all but three sections of the measure. The most important change made was one of phraseology in that section authorizing the attorney general's duties with respect to industrial alcohol permits—issuance of which will be left with the treasury department. Whereas the bill originally should "have the power" to investigate permit applicants, on motion of Representative Swiss, Republican of California, it was amended to read he "shall make such inquiries whenever deemed necessary."

The truly broken hearts are the ones that don't shout it.

Politics is made disastrous to the country by those who want to play it as a game.

Early Days of Famous People

Galileo—Who, Even as a Very Young Child, Was Not Satisfied Unless He Knew Why Things Were as They Were

Early childhood Galileo Galilei developed a brilliancy of mind that belated him for greatness.

Born of poor but gifted and accomplished parents at Pisa in 1564, he gave impressive evidence of his gift for physics and mechanics even in the play and games of boyhood. While other children of his age were spinning tops he was studying their motion and pondering the forces that set and kept them whirling. While after the manner of a child he fashioned toys for his amusement and sport it was mechanical devices he made and in his play with them he studied their motion and equilibrium.

Though in his earliest years he showed a decided bent for mechanics and allied sciences, his mind was of a scope and versatility that prompted those who then knew him to say that the boy had a choice among several lines of development that promised to lead toward greatness. While still in his childhood his attainments in music, painting, scientific invention and classical scholarship attracted wide attention and it was written of him that, even in competition with the great masters of these subjects then active in Italy, he measured up to a high place.

But the science of physics and mechanics was Galileo's first love—and, as it later proved, also his main love and his last. In his earliest approach to it, he registered a seriousness and devotion that marked him as a zealot.

The little Galileo found the field of his choice an inviting one. It was clouded over with scholastic fallacies with errors. And as truth, even in his childhood, was the prime goal of the inquiring mind that was Galileo's most dominant trait, the boy refused to accept "explanations" of nature and equilibrium that did not explain and proceeded to delve for the real truth. Penetrating and keen of analysis in his observation the child Galileo found challenging problems in many of the commonplace things around him—and in directing his mind to their solution started on a truth-seeking career that was to reveal many hidden things to the scientific world.

Every challenging phenomenon of physics and mechanics that came within his ken was grist to the mill of Galileo's inquiring mind. And so it was that one day in his early teens, when attending service in the cathedral at Pisa, his attention was attracted by a lamp there set swinging in studying its motion he noted that its swings did not lessen in time as they did in distance (traversed—and from that observation worked out the "isochronism" (or equal timing) of the pendulum.

During the earlier period of his childhood, Galileo was denied development in geometry and kindred branches of mathematics as his father was fearful lest that line of study might divert his brilliant son into profitless pursuits and so purposely held him back from such subjects. But the boy needed it for the expansion of his gifts and when one morning he chanced to overhear a class reciting in geometry he immediately recognized that science as offering great aid to him in his pursuit of scientific truth. He hungrily seized upon and brilliantly carried it forward in his development.

Galileo Galilei was born at Pisa on Feb. 15, 1564. In 1633, because of certain scientific teaching that was deemed subversive of orthodox doctrine, he was tried before an ecclesiastical court in Rome and was condemned as being "vehemently suspected of heresy." But Galileo escaped penalty by receding. He died in Arezzo, near Florence, Jan. 8, 1642.

There is some funniness with Freudism, brought out through a quick psycho-analysis. He tells the mistress that she is an intuitive inventor and that her husband is an infantile extrovert.

Mrs. Ferrier for the good of her interior now invites a man to her away with her. Stephen Ferrier (Don Cuck), the husband, plans a scamper himself with Helena Grek (Dorothy Sands) who runs a book shop and a fascinating line of conversation.

There are automobile accidents, whooping cough, slamming of doors, and incessant ringing of telephones. The apex is reached when Stephen slips a drapestry over on his spouse with the most beneficial results.

Aside from the pugilistic superiority of the male sex, I believe the playwright may have wished to point out that it is the little things in married life which build up to the breaking point.

The subject reminds me of what Bessie Webb, the sweetest girl in town used to say:

"There are two bears a little while and her hubby should remember—bear and forebear."

Hubby Quells Domestic Mutiny by 'Socking' Wife

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—So hubby socks his dissatisfied wife on the point of the chin and she goes out for the count.

Of course, it's all in dramatic fun and what does it matter as long as they love each other and it makes a good girl out of the darling.

Sidney Howard, one of our leading playwrights, thus gives us "Half Gods," the revelation that two persons don't make marriage a success.

With a surprising slapstick touch for our whose past efforts have reflected a delicate satire, Howard presents his scenes with the pace of a camera-grinder.

You cannot clown Pagliacci and have an opera. Nor can you make a symphony out of the serenade of bathing beauties. What I am trying to say is that moving men cannot fall down with a convention from Emerson on their backs.

The title and theme of this production is derived from the poet's line: "When half-gods go, the gods arrive."

MRS. HOPE FERRIER (Mayo Methers) decides that she wishes something besides "a home, children and a devoted husband. Like a job of jelly in a cream puff, the playwright points a finger as to what this modern woman thing is coming to.

BUSES OVERCROWDED WILSON DECLARES

State Commissioner Also Charges School Licenses Are Obtained by Fraud

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28—Overcrowded school buses, fraud and unlicensed drivers of school buses prevail throughout Ohio, according to a report which had been submitted today to Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown by Chairman R. Wilson, commissioner of motor vehicles.

Commissioner Wilson made his report after a statewide investigation which was started last Saturday following recent bus crashes in which 10 school children and one driver were killed. The investigation will continue until a complete survey of the state has been made.

The report included:
That many buses are overcrowded in violation of the law;
That fraud prevails in many cases.

ties of the state in obtaining licenses for school buses.

That only a small per cent of the bus drivers have chauffeur licenses. That in a few instances school boards have violated the law in the contracting for the buses or the drivers.

Must Obtain Licenses
Secretary Brown recently ordered all school bus drivers to obtain chauffeur licenses. They are required to pass physical and written examinations and a driver's test before being awarded a license.

School buses with a seating capacity of 20 or 30, have carried from 70 to 75 children, the investigators reported.

In one county, the investigators found that not one bus driver is a licensed chauffeur.

One county superintendent reported that a one-armed man had applied for a driver's job on the ground that he was the lowest bidder, the report stated.

The public utilities commission has ordered the New York Central railroad to erect an automatic flash alarm at the Sheldon rd. crossing near Berea, where nine children and the driver of the bus lost their lives. The Pennsylvania railroad previously was ordered by the commission to place a similar signal at the crossing in Shreve, where seven were killed and nine were injured.

THAYER WILL FIGHT BRIBERY CONVICTION

Architect Found Guilty and Faces Sentence in Ohio Penitentiary

CANTON, Jan. 28—Facing a penitentiary sentence of from one to 10 years following his conviction on charges of soliciting a bribe, Albert L. Thayer, New Castle, Pa., architect, today prepared to demand a new trial and to fight his conviction through the state supreme court if necessary.

Thayer was found guilty by a jury of six men and six women yesterday of having solicited a $7,500 bribe from George F. S. Melbourne, general contractor, in connection with the construction of the $1,000,000 Melby Stark Tuberculosis sanatorium.

Trial of the architect began Jan. 14. It was one of the most bitterly contested cases in the history of the common pleas court in this county. The jury, confronted by voluminous testimony deliberated for nearly eight hours before reaching a decision.

Sentence of Thayer will be pronounced within three weeks, Judge Charles Krichbaum declared after receiving the verdict. Thayer is at liberty in the meantime under $5,000 bond.

Watching Skyscraper Go Up Thrill to Chrysler

Towering Structure Stands as Silent Tribute to Motor Head; Declares Business Generally Is Now "Cleaning House"; 1930 Auto Market Bright

Editor's Note—This is the second of two articles based on an exclusive interview with Walter P. Chrysler, prominent American motor car manufacturer.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(Copyright, 1936, L. N. S.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—(I got a thrill watching this building go up floor after floor. It was inspiring.)

Walter P. Chrysler, multi-millionaire head of the Chrysler Motor Corp., made these remarks in an interview today as he discussed his latest achievement—the erecting of the Chrysler building, tallest skyscraper in the world. It is 75 stories high, dwarfing the 50-story Woolworth building. It represents a $15,000,000 investment on Mr. Chrysler's part and is located in the heart of New York, near the Grand Central station.

"I've stood on the sidewalk across the street day after day, watching this building go up, and to say it thrilled me is putting it lightly," said Mr. Chrysler, a time of pride in his voice.

Silent Tribute
The towering structure which pierces the clouds high up over the busiest metropolis in the world, stands as a silent tribute to this man who rose to his present eminent position from an errand boy in a grocery store at Elmhurst, Kansas.

Chrysler was not so proud on his own account as he was over what today as he discussed his latest achievement—the erecting of the Chrysler building, tallest skyscraper in the world. It is 75 stories high, dwarfing the 50-story Woolworth building. It represents a $15,000,000 investment on Mr. Chrysler's part and is located in the heart of New York, near the Grand Central station.

proluted the laborer who built it as a tribute to workers.

Chrysler himself always has been an indefatigable worker. And when he left school at the age of 17 and began a machine shop apprentice in the Elmhurst shops at Elmhurst, Kansas, he worked as a mechanic in various other railroad shops.

Youngest To Hold Job

At 21 he was appointed superintendent of motive power of the Chicago and Great Western, the youngest man ever to hold such a position. He was then "boss" in 1914.

His subsequent rise in the motor world was meteoric and he stands today as a typical example of the American self-made man.

Chrysler is looking forward optimistically toward 1936. He thinks business will steadily improve.

"The stock market crash can be discounted," said Mr. Chrysler. "There is nothing on the business horizon to mar the forward-looking course of the motor car industry."

"Our plans anticipate a return to normal production early in 1936 and a continuation of good business thereafter."

Business Cleaning House

"In the past two months we have had ample opportunity to observe the reaction to the stock market decline. Indications are that only a relatively small percentage of the total buying power was adversely affected by the stock market slump."

Business generally—and especially the automobile industry—has been "cleaning house" in the meantime, he said. Overhead distributing facilities are being reduced of the pressure of stocks on hand and inventories will be a great deal lower by April 1.

"The market for automobile production in 1936 promises to reach a very satisfactory volume in spite of the record output of motor cars in 1935," he declared.

BOMB EXPLODES IN CHICAGO AUTO ROW

Michigan Blvd. Traffic Paralyzed and Hotel Guests Flea into Streets

CHICAGO, Jan. 29—Hundreds of visitors to Chicago's automobile show today are startled by Chicago's bombing technique after a powerful dynamite bomb exploded last night in automobile row, paralyzing Michigan Blvd. traffic with showers of glass and causing terrified guests of a nearby hotel to flee to the street.

Patients in St. Luke's hospital, two blocks away were terrified by the roaring blast and the confusion which followed.

Huge chunks of glass from scores of windows were blown out, showering the heavy stream of boulevard traffic and tying up the usual efficient flow of automobiles.

The bomb, practically wrecked the rear of the building occupied by the Lewis E. Bower Automobile Loan Co. The concussion blew out windows on the second, third, sixth and seventh floors of the new Southern hotel, causing guests to flee in a near panic.

Other buildings nearby suffered similarly as their windows high above the boulevard cracked and fell to the pavement. Although crowds were passing on the sidewalk no one was injured by falling debris, as far as could be learned.

So strong was the blast that a heavy steel garage door at the rear of the loan company was penetrated and torn. Shivers of steel from the severed portion were hurled into 25 automobiles stored inside.

Three employees in the front office of the loan company were knocked down by the blast, but suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

Police could find no motive for the bombing, although it was learned that minor difficulties have resulted recently with persons whose cars were taken to satisfy mortgages, authorities learned.

Always in Danger

CONTRARY to the city traffic code, which is not generally observed anyhow, comes the suggestion from a city official that we poor down-trodden pedestrians cross the street intersections on red traffic lights.

At a first glance, the proposition seems a little incredible, for to hop out into the street with automobiles slipping to and fro in front of you seems almost foolhardy. However, a thought must be given to the left and right turns that are to be made, much to the danger of the pedestrian.

The city traffic code makes particular provision to protect the pedestrian in such instances, and provides that the autoist makes either a right or left turn at his own risk, and in so doing must give the pedestrian the right-of-way and watch out for his safety.

One out of ten drivers neither know nor observe this rule, and there is little possibility of enforcing it. Consequently, when a car comes swinging out around a corner, it's usually up to the pedestrian to save his bones no matter what the color of the light may be.

In walking across an intersection on a red traffic light, the pedestrian would have but two directions to watch, left and right. There would be no chance for an auto to turn a corner and pounce upon him. In crossing on the green light, there is always a possibility of some autoist making a sudden turn, and placing the pedestrian in a precarious position. Not only that, but to guard against such traffic, the pedestrian must cast his eyes back over his shoulder to watch for one row of machines that might turn, and watch straight ahead of himself for the other row.

Like our other debatable question, this proposition will evoke many arguments for and against—what do you think?

Ohio Is Particular

OHIOANS not only pay more for their Florida oranges than residents of many other states, but also get oranges of inferior quality from that state, in the opinion of C. C. Northrup, 604 North Main st., who owns a 10-acre tract of orange groves in the south.

It is all Ohio fault, too, according to Mr. Northrup, who claims the sterilizing process through which the oranges must pass before they are admitted to this state not only increases the price of oranges but also ruins their flavor.

The sterilizing process deemed necessary to protect this state against an invasion of the so-called fruit fly, which may grower and shipper declare is a "bugaboo." Many states have not taken the fruit fly seriously and do not require sterilization before the oranges are admitted.

Ohio should take action to repeal these laws and reduce the local Florida orange prices, Northrup believes.

A PROMISE FULFILLED A PLEDGE RENEWED

provide these qualities at the lowest possible cost . . .

More than three years ago, Olds Motor Works published this declaration of purpose, and publicly pledged itself to this policy of progress.

And the promise has been fulfilled.

The Oldsmobile Six reflects this purpose in the many improvements and refinements which have been made from time to time.

Meanwhile, the Viking Eight was introduced, applying the same principles to a 90-degree V-type eight in the great medium-price field.

Olds Motor Works recognizes four responsibilities in its policy pledged to progress . . . to design progressively . . . to build faithfully . . . to sell honestly . . . and to service sincerely.

And now, at the beginning of this new year, Olds Motor Works renews its pledge and reaffirms its responsibilities in order that in 1936, as in years past, it shall retain the sincere friendship of every owner . . . and that every motorist may consider the purchase of either Oldsmobile or Viking with absolute confidence.

Local Pastor Concludes Meetings at Defiance

The Rev. G. G. Canfield, pastor of First Church of the Brethren, returned yesterday morning from Defiance, where he conducted a two weeks' evangelistic campaign. In that time there were 21 conversions to the church membership. Assisting him in his work was the pastor of the Defiance Church of the Brethren, the Rev. Charles Kitter. Rev. Mr. Can-field reports that capacity crowds attended all the meetings.

There is no occasion for surprise over the White House denial that a questionnaire had been sent out from the executive office to 50,000 federal officeholders for use for political purposes, as charged by Chairman Shoemaker of the Democratic national committee. The case was not the first wherein the Hon. J. Edgar Hoover had been accused.

The attorney general of Florida has ruled that Democrats who voted for Hoover can not run in the Democratic primaries down
there. Were a ruling along that line made in Nebraska, that state might have two Republican senators.

Il Tevere, a radical Fascist paper printed
in Rome, refers to French Premier Tardieu
as "a second Wilson," remarking that "one Woodrow Wilson was quite enough. We don't want a French edition of the same

Tardieu hasn't been preaching fourteen points, upon occasions openly arrived at or
had a word to say regarding self-determination of peoples.

Illinois State's Attorney John A. Swanson
doesn't hold that one of his assistants whose name has been connected with a series of jewel robberies in Cook county is guilty, but he has suspended him pending an investigation. Conditions in Chicago manifestly are improving. The past policy has been to refuse to take action in the case of any suspected official till his guilt has been demonstrated beyond all reasonable doubt.

Indorsements of Postmaster Crow.

The action of the Republican executive committee in indorsing French Crow for the local postmastership must have been pleasing
to the members of the party and evoked their cordial approval, for it made certain that there will be no contention regarding the selection. Postmaster Crow having already been given the indorsements of Senators Fess
and McCulloch and that of Congressman Grant E. Mouser, Jr.

It may be said that the several indorse-
ments given Mr. Crow to continue in charge of the local government building are in every way logical for they are all recognitions
of merit and manifestations of good politics.

Politically viewed, there would have been
no more justification for the indorsement of any other member of the party for the place
than there would have been for the indorsement of a member of the opposition party,
for the only justification for a change from
one member of a party to another of the same party would have been the failure of the incumbent to administer the duties of his office
satisfactorily, a justification which could not be urged in the case of the present postmaster, whose record has been an exceptionally good one, made the better undoubtedly
by the length of his tenure in office, for understanding of the running of a business such as that of the local postoffice can not be gleaned as readily as can that of many businesses of lesser importance with forces far
more limited in size.

There now can hardly be question of the reappointment of Postmaster Crow, which will give him the honor of having served as the appointee of three presidents—President
Harding, whose personal appointee he was;
President Coolidge and President Hoover.

And nomination by President Hoover, it may be said, is tantamount in this case to confirmation by the senate.

The two Ohio senators, Congressman
Mouser and the Republican county executive committee are all to be congratulated for the course they have pursued.

Mr. Mitchell on Law Enforcement.

In view of the probable transferring of
prohibition enforcement from the treasury
department to the department of justice,
the views of Attorney General William D. Mitchell in regard to the personal habits
of United States marshals, federal district
attorneys, dry agents and others with regard to their use of liquor or their prejudices on
the wet or dry question are naturally interesting.

As revealed by him to the house expenditures committee, Monday, the attorney
general takes the stand that those who are engaged in law enforcement should not only
refrain from violating the law, but also be above suspicion of violating it. And as half
the cases which come up in the United States
courts are based on alleged liquor violations,
he holds that all officials or others engaged in
the handling of such cases should be in sympathy with prohibition law enforcement. In a letter which the attorney general disclosed
to the committee that he had written to a friend, he said, in part:

"With respect to the view of a candidate on prohibition, that is also an important matter
bearing on the probable efficiency of the candidate in the prosecution of prohibition cases. No
head of any administrative organization
would think it wise to assign to a particular
task a man who does not believe in what is being done, has no heart in it, and whose activities are constantly hampered by a strong
distrust for and disapproval of the work he has to do.

"While a United States marshal may have
less to do with the actual prosecution of prohibition cases than do the United States attorneys and their assistants, he does have a direct relation to the work. He has custody of seized liquors. He is an official of the court and is constantly in touch with jury-
men, witnesses, and others interested in these cases.

"If you have had considerable trial experience, you no doubt have realized what an important influence court attaches such as marshals, bailiffs and clerks have on the atmosphere of a court house during a term of court. If the public officials who are charged with duties in relation to the enforcement of the national prohibition act are known by bootleggers, witnesses and jurors to use
liquor themselves, with the probability that they are patronizing illicit traffic in liquors
or their disagreement with prohibition is such that it becomes known or others, it has
a demoralizing effect on the whole machinery of law enforcement."

"We do not want fanatics or zealots engaged in prosecuting these cases, but as a mere administrative matter, it is quite obvious to me that efficient, thorough, and diligent work can not be expected of those who patronize illicit traffic in liquors and have definite and decided opposition to the whole principle of prohibition and make it known. I feel, therefore, that it is my duty
in passing upon the qualifications of candidates for these posts, to know what their habits are and what their attitude is toward prohibition, and that I could not safely reach
a conclusion about their qualifications without knowing these facts.

"I have not made any hard and fast rule
on the subject, and there are many matters
respecting a man's ability and personal qualifications that have to be considered, but I believe that no man who makes a practice of drinking intoxicating liquor, or who has definite or pronounced views in opposition to
prohibition, belongs, during this administration,
in any post having directly to do with the prosecution of cases under the national prohibition act. It seems to me that such men had better seek positions in some other
branch of the government or a private occupation."

It must be conceded that the position taken by the attorney general is a logical one. No industrial or commercial employer would think of retaining a man in his service who
was directly opposed to the aims and objects
of the industry or business, whichever it might be. And by the same token, any man of sympathy with law enforcement and directly opposed to it in some capacity would prove far more of a liability than an asset
in such enforcement.

The attorney general takes the stand that,
so long as the prohibition law is the law, it should be enforced, and that it can be enforced best, all other things even, by those in sympathy with it.

Reports from London are to the effect that
"Chicago's bankruptcy" and the American girl stenographers have crowded naval conference proceedings off the first pages of the London newspapers. Well, it's not hard to understand how London interest in either
the end case of Chicago or the American girls
might be paramount to interest in the proceedings of the gathering thus far. They sloot over one and are thrilled by the other.

Japan is said to be worried over Premier Macdonald's talk of accord with the United States. It's just possible that the less talking done by delegates outside conference, the greater the accomplishments for good as a result of talks over the conference table.

Englishmen are organizing to secure privileges like those enjoyed by women, and if they have their way breach-of-promise proceedings must be money-making propositions to both sexes or neither; divorced
women are no longer to receive alimony but provision is to be made for the support of
children; women must fight alongside men
in time of war instead of holding safe jobs
and women must be barred from teaching
boys. Anyway, it will have to be admitted that it's a comprehensive program.

The soviet Russian supreme court has sentenced its grain trust representative in Germany to death and confiscated all his property. The Bolshevik probably figure that he will not return to Russia to complain about
the confiscation of his property when he knows that it will result in his execution.

Are You Too Thin?

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In the present-day fashion of trying to keep
thin, it is perhaps begging the question to say
"Are you too thin?" But I believe there are many today who are too thin.

Fashions of dress today, for both men and women, dictate whether to be thin or not to be thin. In consequence, many are writing for advice.

One person may take all the food he wants and does not put on weight, while another may go hungry, just to be thin. Why is this?

There are other factors than food that govern
the weight. The amount of exercise, the activity
of the digestive glands—these mysterious glands
that have so much to do with the health of the body—the quantity of oxygen in the blood—all
these have to do with one's weight.

A quiet and placid person is far more likely to take on flesh than an active person. Many thin persons are nervous, their feet and hands are never still, they jitter and fidget. They are perfect examples of perpetual motion.

Fat producing foods are also energy-producing foods. By taking starchy foods, sugar to excess, and fat foods, we add to the body fat. The extra fat not needed for body requirements is added as fat to the body.

The more energy you waste, in activity of any kind, even fanning and shivering, the more the surplus of your body fat is reduced. This may produce a deficit of fat to the body. That is what happens to the over thin person.

Most thin people do not breathe deeply. You can not be well-nourished unless you have an abundance of oxygen in your lungs. Try deep breathing and a habit of always breathing deeply
if you want to be healthy and normal in weight.

If there is anything the matter with your digestive glands your physician will know. These glands are being understood better and better as time goes on, and the medical profession now
realizes their great importance to the well-being of man.

One must have the proper quantity of well-
chosen food in order to maintain good health.
Cream, butter, nuts, starchy foods and other fat
producing dishes will add to your chance of becoming plumper, but you will have to find out just what foods are best for your digestion.

An abundance of sleep and plenty of rest, even though you are not sleeping, will help to restore the flesh. To be quiet in bed in a well-ventilated room will help a lot.

Without oxygen, the food will not feed the body
any more than fuel will burn and heat the home
without plenty of air under the fire-box. The matter of breathing is more important in the taking
on of flesh than is the matter of food.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

H. A. Q.—What do you advise for making the hair grow?

A—I would suggest shampooing once a week
with a good pure soap and warm water, and the use of a stimulating tonic. For particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

MRS. P. Q.—What causes dark circles beneath
the eyes?

A—Lack of sleep, dissipation, indigestion or constipation may be causing these dark circles.

I. R. S. Q.—What can be done for gases in the system?

A—Correct the diet and keep the intestinal tract
clear. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A. R. Q.—How can I fill out hollows in the neck and face?

A—You should try to gain weight in general.
Eat plenty of good nourishing food, including milk,
eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables. Practice deep breathing. Drink water between meals.

L. W. E. Q.—What causes nausea after eating and an excessive flow of saliva?

A—This is usually due to some gastro-intestinal disturbance.

I. A. W. Q.—I have been getting thin for the past three months. Is eating raw fruit the cause?

A—No. It would be wise to have a careful examination.

MRS. D. C. Q.—Is it good to take to get thin?

A—Not advisable.—Copyright, 1930, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

ATTACKING THE ARMY.

The attack recently made by Congressman
Collins, of Mississippi, on the Organized Reserves
and Reserve Officers' association has drawn from the association president, Colonel Walter C. Cole, an open letter that sufficiently answers the Missis-sippian's specific allegations. The obvious purpose and spirit of his oratorical onslaught on the national military establishment deserves a wider rebuke. Collins claimed to be alarmed at the monetary cost of the army to the country.
What he attempted to do was to arouse public feeling against an important component of the army and thus weaken the entire establishment
upon which domestic tranquility, as well as accuracy from foreign aggression, depends.

Against the Organized Reserves Collins brought
the full force of horse, foot and artillery shot
with untruths. They were described as forming
"the most powerful political wing of the whole army." They were scattered throughout the country and even in the government departments
and thus became "a splendid force for military expansion." The chief excuse for their existence was "their great propaganda value." The Reserve Officers' association, Collins declared,
was "a very powerful political influence." Citizens' military training camps and military drill
in the public schools then drew his fire. The formation of a girls' battalion in an Omaha high school furnished the ammunition for a poetical
description of what would happen to the country
"with women in the army," with which Collins
entertained his colleagues at the risk of a clash
with the Watch and Ward society if the Congressional Record ever gets as far north as Boston.

The fact, of course, is that the Organized Reserves constitute a recognized branch of the army
under the national defense act. They are in no sense political. The Reserve Officers' association is their mouthpiece; and it never has asked anything for its own members or for any other purpose than promoting the object of the national defense act, according to its president. The existence of such a body is a salutary antidote to the
pacifism with which a large element of our population has become infected. The reserves are part of the scheme for "a citizenry trained in arms," which is the only safe alternative to a vastly larger standing army. They may not appreciate that down in Mississippi, where they have a governor who boasts that with ten men he could run every bootlegger out of the state. The rest of the country does.—Detroit Free Press.

BLAINE'S BALLAROO.

Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, is savagely incensed concerning American "oppression" in Italy, as he phrases it. This attitude is also representative of Senator Borah's often unre-
hindered attempts to slug the presidential jay.

Sensor Blaine denounces the American occupation forces as "a lot of carpet-baggers." Significantly enough, he alludes to the good-roads system
begun by the natives and carried to completion
by the American-administered public works department of the Italian government as an example of misappropriation of the native government's funds.

Sensor Blaine obviously is in favor of keeping Italian junkies in their long-time inaccessible
state to the end that the rites of roodoo, with black goat's blood, human sacrifice and obscene
and frenzied formulas, may be conducted without being made subject to rude interruption by the white hordes of "oppression."

If these could be said to be one thing more than another that has contributed to the well-being of Italy and its people it must be recognized in this road system so violently denounced by the senator
from Wisconsin, not only as of incomparable benefit to the material interests of the republic, but
to the health of the people, their increasing deliverance from the curse of scrobutic and other
loathsome diseases, as pertinently and properly
alluded to by Senator La Follette.

Sensor Blaine has nothing to say concerning
the correction of evil conditions in Italy and the benefits conferred upon the Italians since the American "oppression" began to weigh them down.
When the United States intervened in Italy its purpose was to bring to an end a bloody and chaotic anarchy, and a situation of corruption
for which the people of the island themselves were responsible. These things largely have been corrected. The Italian government and people at present enjoy as much control over their affairs as
is compatible with their interests connected with health, safety and progress. Incompetencies and sanitary disorder have given place to a semblance of decent and regular government. But Senators Blaine, Borah et al. appear to feel that this people shall have the right to return to their
natural and former condition of stagnation,
disease, poverty, superstition and helplessness,
against the cruel and mercenary exploitations of conscienceless taskmasters native and foreign.—

The Evolution of Matter.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Recent studies in chemical evolution
strongly indicate that the progress of the material universe is from the complex to the simple. This view is confirmed by the chemical evolution taking place on the earth, namely that of the radio-active elements. This order is the reverse of that of biological evolution which proceeds from the simple to the complex. Animals and inanimate matter appear to be running in opposite directions.

The great question which puzzles the astro-
physicists, nowadays, is: What goes on in the interior of a star?

The enormous heat at the center and in the interior of the sun, vastly greater than
any to be attained in terrestrial laboratories,
makes scientists wonder whether the sun
could have its present radiating capacity if
its interior were formed of the common terrestrial elements, such as hydrogen, oxygen,
calcium, iron, silicon.

Jean points out that even if the sun were composed of uranium, the radio-active substance with the highest-known atomic number, ninety-two, its radiating power would be only one-half of that observed. Uranium is the heaviest and most complex of all atoms
known on earth; but a sun composed entirely of uranium would last, it has been computed, only for a minute fraction of what is believed, on sound evidence, to have been
the sun's life.

Now it is a very extraordinary discovery
of recent astronomy that the stars which
radiate most energetically are not, generally,
the hotter but the cooler stars! It is true that the most massive stars radiate most energetically; and that the heaviest stars
are likewise the youngest. "Energetic radiation is an accompaniment of stellar youth."

This is true because the life history of a star
registers a steady loss of weight as its substance vanishes away into radiation. After the fashion of society belles, the oldest stars
have grown tired of radiating.

It is now believed that radiation proceeds
from types of matter which annihilate themselves, and vanish utterly as the star ages.
They are believed to be ninety-two terrestrial
atoms, although two of these have not yet been identified. In the stars, it is now believed, there are other atoms, with atomic numbers beyond ninety-two. These atoms are called, after Newton, "lucid" atoms. These lucid atoms, being the heaviest atoms, sink
to the center of the star, and more quickly
dissolve in radiation. The permanent atoms,
which are the lightest, float to the surface of the star.

Thus the general trend of chemical evolution in the universe is from the complex to the simple. As Jean happily expresses it: "If the material universe moves in the direction
we suppose, biological evolution moves like
a sailor who runs up the rigging in a slak-
ing ship."—Copyright, 1930, International

local and run me through on a sleeper."

Caller—"Let me see. I know most of your folks, but I have never met your brother, George. Which side of the house does he look like?"

The small boy in the family: "The side with

MORRAL M. E. LEAGUE INSTALLS OFFICERS

Pastor Presides for Work; Dr. H. E. Armacoast Delivers Sermon

Marion, Jan. 20—The Epworth League of the Methodist church held its annual installation and reception services at the church Sunday night.

The church was beautifully decorated with the Epworth League colors of red and white.

The officers installed by Rev. Cecil Fogle were: president, Miss Mildred Hartmann; first vice president, Miss Evelyn Lucas; second vice president, Miss Maxine Morral; third vice president, Miss Nina Pearl Carpenter; fourth vice president, Allen Ferguson; secretary, Wilbur Parker; and treasurer, Miss Doris McIntire.

Miss Mildred Hartmann, new president received the following members for membership in the league: active members: Arlene Willey, Isabelle Wilbur, Clara Mae Noblett and Wilbur Parker. Associate members were Doris Cain, Rowena Moore, Aileen Morral, Ruby Wright, Ethel Wood, Paul Brown, Maurice Heller, Clifford Wood and Mervin Hughes.

Music for the evening was led by Miss Marjory Mussen, League chorister and the Scripture was read by Maxine Morral. A quartet number, "Go and Tell," by Marjory Mussen, Mildred Hartmann, Maurice Heller and Clifford Wood, and the evening sermon by Dr. H. E. Armacoast, of Belmar, completed the program.

In a talk given by the new elected president, Mildred Hartmann, she appointed the following League Councilors: Mrs. J. H. Eardon, Mrs. T. J. Lucas, and Mrs. W. W. Morral.

Names Officers

The following officers have been elected by the Epworth League at Marion for this year: Most excellent chief, Mrs. Ida Warner; excellent senior, Miss Aronelle DeRoche; excellent junior, Mrs. Leola Howe; manager, Mrs. Lucy Rogers; mistress of records and correspondence, Miss Mildred Hartmann; mistress of finance, Mrs. Edith Faurer; protector, Miss Ruth Ella McIntire; guard, Miss Iris Richards; captain of the degree team, Mrs. Bertha Troman; candidate for grand lodge, Mrs. Lou Brown; trustee, Miss Iris Richards, and installing officer, Mrs. Myrtle Sloan.

These officers will be installed in February.

ROUND UP SEVEN

One Man Wounded and Detroit Police Believe Robbery Frustrated

DETROIT, Jan. 20—One man was wounded, two police officers narrowly escaped death and seven men were in jail today as the result of a gang round-up in Detroit suburbs.

Police believe they frustrated a plan to rob the Soldiers and Sailors' home at Sandusky, O., from $5,000 to $10,000 worth of jewelry, $3,000 to $10,000 worth of narcotics and from $10,000 to $40,000 in cash.

The round-up was the result of a letter from an unknown man in St. Louis to Cyril Hanson, former patrolman, which fell into police hands. The letter told of the burglary opportunities offered by the Soldiers and Sailors' home.

NOBIL'S

Six Months Ago—The MARION BUILDING, SAVINGS & LOAN CO.

Two Entirely New Cars HUDSON'S Great

... a fine—fast—powerful Eight

We count this our greatest achievement. From front end to tail light it is a new design. In appearance and finish it is commandingly beautiful. And in smoothness it surpasses anything we know.

It outranks anything we have ever done in design, performance or value.

The roadability and riding ease are not excelled by any car at any price. And the price at which it sells questions the wisdom of ever paying more for any car.

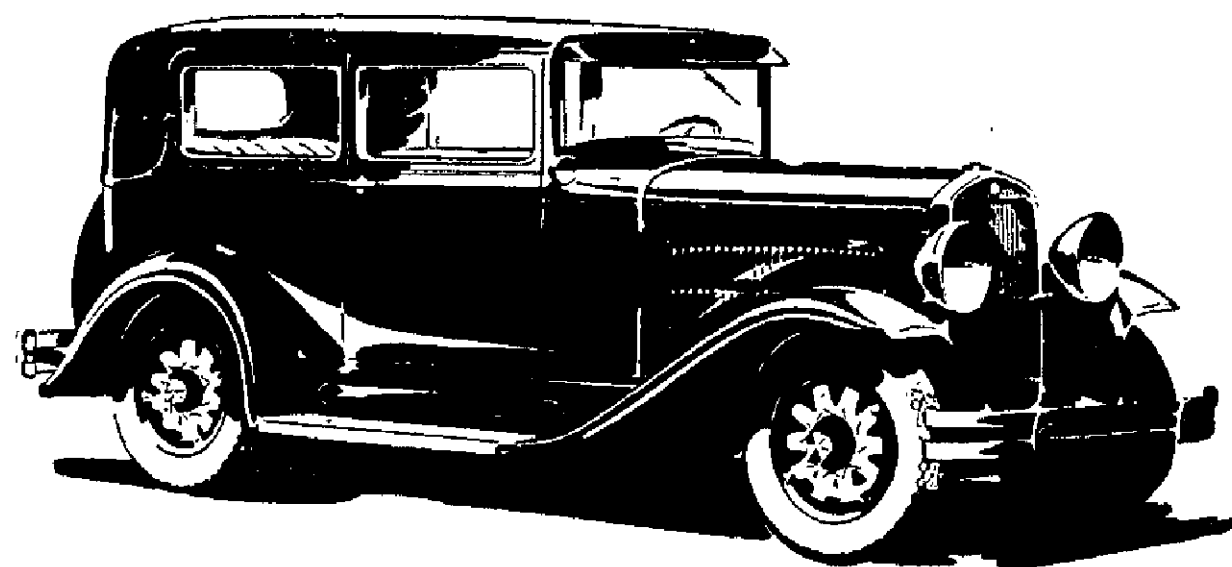

Prices and Details—Lowest finance terms available

Standard Length Chassis—Coach, $1050; Coupe, $1100; Standard Sedan, $1150; Roadster, $1200; Phaeton, $1300; Sunrider, $1355. Long Wheelbase—5-pass. Touring Sedan, $1250; Brougham, $1295; 7-pass. Phaeton, $1500; 7-pass. Sedan, $1650.

Prices f. o. b. Detroit, Factory.

Choice of wide variety of colors. Two-way shock absorbers all around. Radiator shutters—Blower on dash—Electric gauge for fuel and oil—electrolock—tire lock—windshield cleaner—glass-proof rear-view mirror—up light—disappearing rear window curtain, tire swell on fender, extra tire rim, toggle windshield opener.

and ESSEX the Challenger

with even faster speed... with greater power... with quicker get-away... also challenges in good looks—in real values—in reliability and in price...

Its challenge is distinctive and unusual in those fine qualities which owners prize most highly. In appearance it is a completely changed and modern car. The bodies are longer, wider, lower. It challenges your interest with big car spaciousness and comfort.

The motor is larger and smoother. The performance range is notably increased. It gets quickly away at the stop, is strong on the hills and swift on the straight-away.

You won't be content with any less comfortable or less good looking or less distinctive car. It is a thoroughbred automobile and it challenges your attention because of its price.

Features That Challenge

Larger Bodies; Greater Power—Faster Speed—Added economy. Wide Choice of Colors to Suit Your Own Taste. New Art Body Designs. Four Two-way Shock Absorbers. Radiator Shutters, Electrolock, Starter on Dash, Electric Gauge for Fuel and Oil.
